

S.S.S. NATURE'S CURE FOR BLOOD POISON

S. S. S. is known as Nature's Cure for Contagious Blood Poison because it is prepared entirely from the blood purifying and healing extracts of roots, herbs and barks taken directly from the natural forests of the land. It does not contain the least particle of strong mineral ingredients, and is so prepared as to aid in the upbuilding of every portion of the system, while driving Contagious Blood Poison from the blood. No unpleasant effects ever follow the use of S. S. S., such as stomach troubles, dyspepsia, mercurial rheumatism, etc., as is so often the case where other medicines are used. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble and gently but surely, drives out every trace of the disease, cleanses and purifies the circulation, and by its fine vegetable tonic effects, assists the system to rapidly overcome the ravages of the disease, and regain its natural healthful condition. S. S. S. does not cover up or hide the symptoms for awhile, to break out later, but so thoroughly does it remove the cause that no signs of the trouble ever return. S. S. S., Nature's cure, is the surest and safest remedy for Contagious Blood Poison. Home Treatment Book with valuable suggestions and information, and any medical advice free to all who write.

EAGLE EYE OF INDIAN HELPED THE ATHLETICS

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Chief Bender and their own wits are the only sign tipping the world's champion Athletics ever had, and that is no different from the system used by any other major league team, except that the chief has inherited the traditional eagle eyesight of his ancestors and there may be more wits working simultaneously on the Philadelphia bench than on other benches.

That information was vouchered, signed, sealed and delivered by Cy Morgan, of Connie Mack's staff, in the middle of a fanfare today. "I know a lot of people believed we had some system of getting the catcher's signs, but it is not true. None of our boys want the catcher's signs. But we do study the pitcher's all the time, and whatever ideas we get about what is being pitched we get from them and not from the catcher's signs. We scared the Giants a lot in the world's series by making use of our reputation. When one of the boys got on second he would make a lot of bluff motions and the catcher would yell something. Then Meyers would run in and confer with the pitcher and switch signs."

"Chief Bender has wonderful eyes. I've been on the street with him and 'vay off' in the distance would see a small lettered sign which I could not make anything out of, and I have pretty good eyes. I'd point it out to Bender and he would read it easily."

"There are lots of little things almost unnoticeable about the motions different pitchers use in their delivery, and most of those motions have a meaning. We sit there in a row on the bench and study the pitcher, and if we detect any difference in this motion we watch to see what kind of a ball that motion means. Then we all know it and remember it."

"We watch the infielders and sometimes get their signs, and we are always watching batsman or basemen for hit and run signs. But every team is doing that. It is part of the game and a big part, too."

Uncle Cyrus Young, the grand old man of baseball, has signed his next summer's contract with the Boston Red Sox and has ventured the remark that he is going to deliver the same brand of pitching that has made him famous for the last twenty years. Matt Wells and "One Round" Hogan will most likely meet in London on Derby day next May.

"Red" Doolin's broken leg is as good as ever. His fighting spirit never can be broken, so the Phillies are assured a good team for one more year anyhow.

Bresnahan is anxious to get a little more hitting in his outfield. He believes that the Cardinals will be even more important factors in the pennant race than they were a year ago if his gardeners get to hitting a little and Slim Sales manages to keep his seat on the water wagon.

"Bugs" Raymond may be taken South by the Giants. He has promised to be good and shun his favorite highballs.

Every now and then, when all else is dull in the winter league, some gracious soul insists that the baseball was changed in the National league last season. But it wasn't. It reminds one of the social lady of Mrs. O'Shaughnessy, who remarked to Mrs. Lafferty: "Good mornin', an' how be ye this mornin'?" Not that I give a rap, but it opens the way for conversation."

SEMI-PROS GET MANY DOLLARS

Small Teams on Coast Prosper During the Winter; Playing in Closed Season is Profitable for the Professionals

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—Thousands of dollars' business is done each year by the semi-professional baseball clubs of Los Angeles and vicinity. Many persons are prone to pass over the so-called semi-pro leagues which have their existence during the off-season of the year, yet these teams, taken as a whole, collect a large sum of money from the fans.

Leagues almost too numerous to mention have been started in Southern California this season, most of them by Carl Mueller. The most important one on the south this year, however, is the Ventura County league. This was composed of the Henry & Cornett Giants, Oxnard Ventura and Fillmore. Thirteen games were played in this league by each team.

More than $1000 for the season is reported to have been taken in at the gates. Some of the games brought in as low as $110, while when Ventura and Oxnard crossed the bat, the total receipts of the games was in the neighborhood of $200.

A sum which will range about the same as the Ventura County league was taken in by the Southern State league. Eight teams compose this league, and 13 weeks of play was the schedule. It is estimated that a sum slightly under $500 was taken in at the gates by the managers of these teams.

The tricycle league, the Railroaders' league, and other league playing during the closed season, all report fair gates. At times the cuts were low for the players, but nearly all the time they met their expenses. And this is an off-year for semi-pro, or winter, baseball in the Southern Pacific Coast league owners practically have forbidden their players to participate in games during the off-season saying that they may get a cut in salary when they receive their contracts for the 1912 season. Another reason why winter ball has not seen many big leaguers in Los Angeles is that in order to play baseball in minor league territory permission must be received from the big club owners.

It is estimated that the leagues which have been in operation in this vicinity have taken in nearly $15,000 since the closing of the Pacific Coast league season.

Another Bergen is coming into baseball for a trial with the New York Americans. He comes from Ossining, N. Y.

You will find that many old-time fans who will tell you that Cy Young, the original and only Cy, had no equal when it came to warming up. All that Cy did was to peel off a heavy sweater and by the time he walked from the bench to the slab he was ready to pitch.

LURE OF DEL MAR ATTRACTS MANY Beautiful Suburb of San Diego Ideal Summer Home Location.

There is just one more chance to secure full sized lots in beautiful Del Mar Heights, which is close to San Diego and promises to be the summer home of a great many Arizonans, who exclusively were permitted to select future homesteads in this beauty spot of Southern California. The original price of $100 for a lot, has now been advanced to $200. But as Costley & Thompson who placed these lots first on the local market, had made a number of reservations, those desiring to secure one or more of these very desirable lots, may still secure them at the original price of $100, providing they do so at once. This liberal offer expires next Saturday at 1 p. m. providing there are still some lots left, which is doubtful, as they are liable to be snapped up at once.

SHORT COURSE FOR FRESHIES

Stanford and California Youngsters Will Not Be Put Over Full Varsity Distance; New Rowing Regulations

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 7.—A three-mile course on the Oakland estuary for the varsity crews, and a two-mile course for the freshmen crews, will be the races which will be rowed by Stanford and California this year. Heretofore the freshmen have rowed races as long as the varsity, but they will not be put to so hard a test as the more experienced oarsmen in the future. The races will be rowed on the morning of the intercollegiate track meet or the third game of the intercollegiate baseball series. The time is not definitely fixed.

Among the new rules governing the leading aquatic event on the Pacific coast is the regulation which provides that in case of swamping the race will have to be re-rowed. Two years ago Stanford won the race through California swamping. The swamping must be done to outside elements, however, and the referee will decide as to the cause. In case there is any accident to equipment within the first 15 strokes, such as the breaking of a rigger or an oar, the race will be started over.

Probably the most important action from the standpoint of the crews is the decision to have the races begin from what is known as a lock start. By this method of starting two boats are moored in the stream at right angles to the course. A man in each of these boats holds on to the rudder of one of the shells and only releases it at the starting gun. This insures absolute fairness in starting.

It is probable that the course will be surveyed this year to insure an accurate rowing of the full specified distance.

The Best Cough Syrup is Easily Made at Home

Costs Little and Acts Quickly. Money Refunded if It Fails.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup, and saves you about $2.00 as compared with ordinary cough remedies. It stops obstinate coughs—even whooping cough—in a hurry, and is splendid for sore lungs, asthma, croup, hoarseness and other throat troubles.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Tastes Good.

This takes right hold of a cough and gives almost instant relief. It stimulates the appetite, and is slightly laxative—both excellent features.

Pinex, as perhaps you know, is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in gualiacol and the other natural healing pine elements.

No other preparation will do the work of Pinex in this recipe, although strained honey can be used instead of the sugar syrup, if desired.

Thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada now use this Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe. This plan has often been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equaled. Its low cost and quick results have made it immensely popular.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

YOUNG DENIES TAKING TAXES

Also Makes Some Caustic Remarks Concerning His Critics and Says He Will Have More to Say When He is Out of Office

Charging an attempt on the part of Territorial Secretary George C. Young, to hasten the collection of fees from insurance companies doing business in Arizona, for that privilege during the ensuing year, that he might "feather his own nest" by getting fifty per cent of such taxes before he goes out of office, the Democrat last night published a very sensational story. Both afternoon papers published an opinion on the subject, written by George Purdy Bullard, attorney general elect, which opinion was referred to as proof that the secretary was acting illegally in accepting such fees from the territory in view of the fact that the term of government is soon to change. It also advised insurance companies not to file statements until Arizona is admitted.

The law requires that annually every foreign insurance company shall make a statement under oath of the sum total of the premium receipts collected within this territory for the period lapsing since the filing of the previous statement by said company. The secretary of the territory shall then levy a tax of two per cent upon the premium receipts which shall be paid by the company before a certificate of authority to do business in the territory during the current year can issue. This tax must be paid by March of each year. According to a construction of the law by the attorney general elect, if the tax is paid to Secretary Young, under a law defining fees, one half of it shall go to the secretary as a perquisite, while if the tax is not paid until after the state is admitted it will all go to the state.

The opinion further sets forth that if the payment of these taxes is thus made prematurely, when he assumes office he will instruct the corporation commission that in his opinion the statements should not have been made, the authority to transact business for 1912 should not have issued and he will commence action for the delivery up of said authority for cancellation.

In one of the afternoon papers Corporation Commissioner elect F. A. Jones was also quoted in a similar way, the inference in all cases being that Mr. Young was attempting to gather a little illegal graft for himself before he slipped out of office.

That Mr. Young might be given a square deal in the premises he was asked last night over the telephone if he cared to make any statement, and responded as follows:

"It is a case of giving a calf enough rope to hang itself. I am too busy to go down into the mire to fight that kind of people. I am willing to compare my record with that of the attorney general elect, or any of my critics. In the first place none of the tax money referred to goes to the secretary. If they want to talk there is nobody to stop them. I will be out of office pretty soon and will probably have more to say myself. My office will be at 403 and 404 Fleming block where they can find me any time they want me and sometimes, perhaps, when they won't want me. As for Mr. Bullard, if he keeps rendering opinions promiscuously, he won't have any left to render after he really gets into office. As for Mr. Jones, I have defended him more frequently to his critics than has any other member of the territorial administration. His conduct comes with poor grace and he should know the facts before he makes such statements."

READ FOR YOURSELVES. AND FOR THE ISSUE.

People who desire to be bright

about the arbitration treaties now pending in the senate should read for themselves what the president and the former president say about them in their recent clearly conflicting utterances—the President in his speech at the "peace dinner" in New York on Saturday evening, December 30th, the former president in his letter declining to attend the dinner or in his article in the Outlook. Here are two men who have both been elected to the highest office in the republic, and who disagree widely, irreconcilably, on a question of the gravest concern to the whole world. Both should surely be able to express clearly and forcibly their views, and to give the most cogent reasons on their respective sides. Neither of them takes undue space for what he has to say, and every citizen who can read at all should be able to read both the arguments. And both should be read for light on the question, not merely from interest in the antagonism of two such public characters, or curiosity about its political significance and probable political outcome.—Harper's Weekly.
